We'll continue to operate at the current office until Friday, September 2nd, and the new office will be open from Monday, September 5th. Since we're moving over the weekend, our services will not be interrupted. Also, our phone number will not change. You'll be able to enjoy our services in a larger and more comfortable place. 16번부터 17번까지는 두 번 들려줍니다.

[16~17] 다음을 듣고, 물음에 답하십시오.

W: Good morning, everyone. I'm Barbara Campbell with the Oakville Culture Center. Throughout history, people made a lot of inventions. But, not everything was planned and many were invented by chance. Some food products were also made accidentally. For example, corn flakes were invented when a pot of boiled grains was left unattended for several hours. Potato chips were also invented by chance. When a customer kept complaining about his French fried potatoes, the chef was annoyed and served very salty sliced potatoes. Surprisingly, the customer loved them. Ice cream cones are another example. Ice cream had been served on plates for years. One day an ice cream seller ran out of plates, so he put ice cream on the top of rolled waffles. This is how the ice cream cone was born. Lastly, chocolate chip cookies were made accidentally when a cook used a chocolate bar instead of melting chocolate to make cookies. Now, I'd like you to think of other examples.
